Oakland Mediation Center Mediates More!

Bloomfield Hills, Michigan.... OMC mediates more cases than any other community mediation center or practice in Michigan!

If you are in a conflict with someone, are thinking about suing someone, or are already involved in a lawsuit, it is increasing likely that at some point someone will ask you if you would like to participate in mediation, a private process in which a neutral third party--a mediator--helps parties develop a solution to their problem. Parties share their concerns, identify their needs, brainstorm solutions, evaluate options and ultimately make their own decision on a resolution.

OMC has been committed to the peaceful resolution of conflict since 1990 and has mediated in excess of 37,000 cases, aiding over 82,000 individuals and more than 33,000 businesses.

Almost 84,000 youth have been empowered to peacefully resolve conflict themselves through OMC's mediation and education programs. Olweus Bullying Prevention/Intervention reduces and prevents instances of bullying and improves peer relations with an overall reduction of up to 50%! Peers Making Peace, the only research based peer mediation program, encourages students of all ages to effectively resolve their own disputes as they adopt constructive behaviors for any conflict, in any setting, with a 90% drop in assaults!

Since the economic downturn in 2008, OMC's services have become even more important to the community. Not only is mediation a private, calm, and promising setting to resolve every type of conflict, but it's also inexpensive with little or no cost. OMC provides the opportunity to resolve the conflict, restore the relationship, and look to a new tomorrow without emotional and economic stress.
